SUES WORK FOR $200,000. An Action Arising Out of the Gran

& Ward Failure. A suit which is a sequel to the failure of the was brought to trial this afternoon in the

The action is brought by Col. Edward C. James, the lawyor, against James heary Work, the broker, who figured promisently in the failure of the firm of Grant & Ward, to recover upward of $200,000, which the lawyer alleges Work secured from him at different times under fails representation. Col. James is represented by Joseph II. Choate, while ex-Judge Noals H. Davis appears for Mr. Work.

Col. James anys that he was induced by Mr. Work to invest his money in the firm of Grant & Ward upon representations that he would realize at least 8 per cent. upon the investment, the money to be placed in large Government contracts. What these confracts were Mr. Work said that he was not at liberty to tell, but he promised that it was almost a sure thing, and the amount realized would be up to what he said it would be.

Mr. Choate in his opening to the jury declared that there over year anything in these clared that there over year anything in these up to what he said it would be.

Mr. Cheate in his opening to the jury declared that there never was anything in those contracts at all, that they were all fictifious, and that at the time the transactions began the firm of Grant & Ward was insolvent. He stated that Work had induced large numbers of his friends to put their money in these schemes, and that before the failure of the Arm he had drawn out and put in his pooket $1,200,000, which was really the money that his friends had invested. The case is still on.

He was brought out at large crowd of enthusiasts. Many ladies were the track and the time of year, is very good. Judge Morrow carries 116 pounds in the Brooklyn, or two pounds less than be did in the same event last year. He was unfortuand lay in a good position until the atretch was reached. Here Covington attempted to move-up, but was caught and jammed against the rence with such force as to break his ankle. The horse fell back, but Covington, though suffering terribly, rode him hard and finished a close fifth. Subsequently he proved what a good horse he was by winning the Maturity Handicap from Clarendon, Sir John and others in 1.5814, the distance being nine furlongs. After winning Ansarous, Md., April 4.—The amended race at Guttenburg on Saturday is seddom seen. Seven horses unished heads and necks apart in one grand straiggling buned. In the its tew strides Queen or Trumps stuck her shapely head in front and won a small for the telephone in Marriand.

A prettier finish than that in the second race at Guttenburg on Saturday is seddom seen. Seven horses unished heads and necks apart in one grand straiggling buned. In the its tew strides Queen or Trumps stuck her shapely head in front and won a small for the first two strides Queen or Trumps stuck her shapely head in front and won a small for the world win sure, and he must have played it heavily. Very little money would have to be wagered to win this amount, for the Queen was at odds of 20 and 40 to 1.

If the colored boy Morris does not ride at the big traces this season the writer will be very misch mistaken. Some olg owner will probably want blen, and a special refastational may be accorded. For a light-weight toy Morris is a wender. His style resembles Heighton's, and it is a question if the latter has a better pair of issues than Morris. The youngster rode a superb linish on Sannterer on Saturday. He got into trouble by counsing Woodcouter into Arrael, thereby causing the latter to fall and injure Tommy Flyna beriously. It is hardly possible that Morris du this on purpose, he is a kind-hearted lod, and trainers relate how, when Hughey Penur lost one of his relatives recently, for its west to him and generously gave him the money he received for a winning meant on Miss Belle, which Penny was to have ridden. If the colored boy Morris does not ride at
